WEDDING.

Turner-Everest. Turner—Everest.

Wednesday evening at 6.36 o'clock Homer R. Turner and Miss May Starr, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Everest, were united in marringe at the home of the bride's parents, 63 Oak street, in the presence of raintives and a lew intimate friends. Rev. William S. Beard, pastor of the First Congregational church, performed the ceremony, the double ring service being used. Because of recent deaths in both families the wedding was very quiet.

Miss Dora Hayes of Peabody, Mass, an intimate friend of the bride, played the wedding march from Lohengrin. The bride's gown was crepe meteor, with Irish point trimmings. She wore a veil caught with orange blassoms, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and lilles of the valley. She was given a way by her father. The maid of honor wore blue with silver trimmings and carried a sheaf of enchantress pinks. The flower girls were attired in white and carried baskets of flowers.

E. M. Arnold Hearing Continued-Various Witnesses Throw Light on Financial Methods-Postmaster Letters' Cottage Looted.

At the adjourned hearing Wednesday morning before Referee in Bank ruptcy Andrew J. Bowen, on the estate of Ernest M. Arnold, in the city court room, C. Fred Waterman of this city, who was to be the first witness, failed who was to be the first witness, falled to put in an appearance. It was understood that Mr. Waterman was to be examined concerning the payment of certain sums of money on notes held by him against Ernest M. Arnold, after the 1st of June, 1916, and within four months of the institution of the bankduptcy proceedings, with a view of ascertaining whether or not such payments were preferences and whether it was within the power of the trustees to recover the money.

John F. Carpenter Testifies.

John F. Carpenter Testifies.

John F. Carpenter was the first witness. He testified that he is an attorney at law in Putnam and had known Mr. Arnold, C. Fred Waterman and Percy Waterman for several years. He was acting as attorney for the Watermans. He prefaced his testimony with the explanation that while he was attorney for the Watermans, yet they had absolved him from his obligation as attorney and that he was at liberty to state the whole facts just as they took place.

A Tenant's Experience.

Frederick W. Seward was called to testify concerning the lease of one of Arnoid's houses, which he had obtained on June 7th, 1910. He said that he moved into the house, one of two the stimated cost of building which was $16,000, on April 1st, he being the first tenant to occupy the house; the rental tenant to occupy the house; the rental was $25 per month or $300 per year. He paid his rent to Mr. Arnold for the months of April and May. About the 1st of June he had made arrangements years' lease.

How the Rent Was Paid.

He further said that he had a receipt from Mr. Arnold for the first year's rental, and that it came about something in this way: Mr. Seward is an insurance agent, both life and fire, and he had succeeded in getting Mr. Arnold to take two large policies of life insurance, one straight life and one endowment; that there was a loan value on these politices after three an-Bunco Farm Buyer Passes Worthless

Took Auto for Plumbing Bill. William F. Rafferty was the first witness called in the afternoon session, and was asked concerning the transaction by which he took Mr. Arnold's automobile on or about June 19th in payment of his bill for plumbing, amounting to $2,372.39. He said that $1,600 of this sum was represented by a note which he discounted at the First National bank of Putnam, and that he renewed it twice, each time Mr. Arnold giving a three months' note, but that on May 31st, 1910, Raf-note, but that on May 31st, 1910, Raf-ferty received a notification from the cashier of the bank to the effect that the note must be taken up, or at least reduced by half.

Mr. Rafferty went to see Mr. Arn-old and told him the circumstances, and again on June 10th, when he was referred by Mr. Arnold to Mr. Russell. Mr. Russell called Arnold into the con-ference and they drew a bill of sale to Rafferty of the automobile, a model S. ference and they drew a bill of sale to Rafferty of the automobile, a model S. Pope-Hartford, for which Arnold had paid $3.00 a year before, and Rafferty gave in return a bond, binding himself to return the automobile to Afnold if the latter paid him his bill of $2,372.39 within a specified time.

Released Rafferty from Bond. Toward the end of June Arnold got mixed deeper in his financial entanglement and told Rafferty that he could not hope to pay his bill, and released him from the bond, leaving the Rafferty insisted that he had no reason to think that Arnold was in a snaky condition financially in June, than at other time during the last four or five years, though he had heard various rumors as to his condition. rious rumors as to his condition.
